

The Great Gordini Magic Invitations

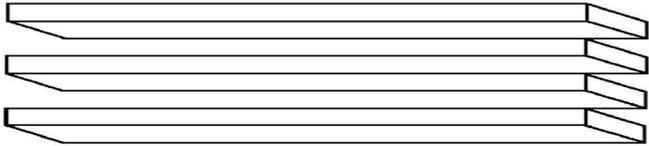

Multiplying Boards

The Trick:

Magically change the number of boards from three to four!

The Secret:

Cover the left side of the picture with your hand, and ask your friends how many boards they see. They will say three. Now move your hand to the right side of the picture, and ask how many they see. The answer will be four. This is one of my favorite optical illusions!

The Great Gordini Magic Invitations

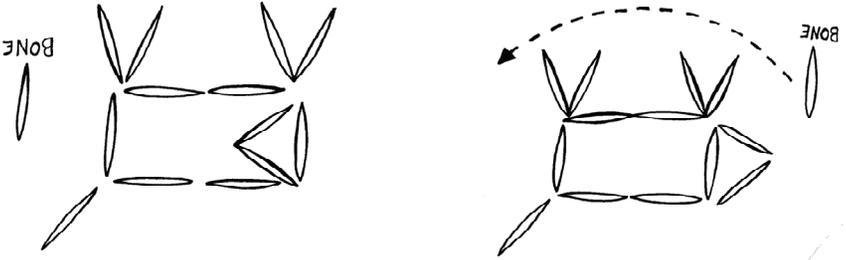

The Hound Dog

The Trick:

For this trick you will need 14 toothpicks. Using 13 of the toothpicks you make the figure of a dog. The last stick represents the dog's bone. Move the bone from the front of the dog to the back and challenge a friend to get the dog to face his bone by moving only two of the toothpicks. The tail must remain sticking upwards and he can't move the bone.

The Secret:

Turn the dog's head by moving the two toothpicks to the inside of the body.

The Coin Mystery

The Trick: Four different coins (penny, nickel, dime, and quarter) and a coffee cup are needed for this trick. While your back is turned, one of the coins is placed underneath the cup and the other three are hidden out of sight. When you turn around, you can name the coin underneath the coffee cup.

The Secret:

To perform this trick you will need a secret helper who places the coin underneath the cup. He signals you on which coin was chosen by the direction the handle of the cup is pointing. The diagram to the right shows you the code that is used.

Connecting the Dots

The Trick: Nine dots (three rows of three dots) are drawn on a piece of paper. The challenge is to draw a line through all nine dots with one continuous line without crossing through a dot twice.

The Secret:

You begin the line at the upper right dot and connect diagonally to the lower left dot, then go upward but go past the upper left dot to a space as if there were a dot just above it. The line is continued at a diagonal through the two middle dots, continuing past as if there were another dot to the right of the bottom row. The line finishes by drawing it to the left through the last two dots.

The Paper Drop

The Trick: This trick uses two napkins, one is handed to your friend. The challenge is to see who can drop their napkin and have theirs hit the floor first. The only rule is that you must drop the napkins at the same time.

The Secret:

On the count of three, you quickly wad up your napkin into a ball and then drop it. This allows your napkin to drop straight to the floor while your friend's napkin will float like a feather. Your paper will hit the floor way before his.

The Floating Cup

The Trick: A paper cup is held between your two hands. You slowly release your grip of the cup and it begins to float in mid-air.

The Secret:

A small hole is secretly punched into the side of the cup. This will allow you to stick your thumb in it. Your audience has to be standing directly in front of you. Hold both hands around the cup, then slowly move your fingers away until only your thumb is supporting the cup (this will not be seen by the audience) and it will appear to be floating. Re-grip the cup, then quickly crumple it up and throw it away, destroying the evidence. You may want to practice this trick in front of a mirror before showing it to your friends.

The Torn Napkin

The Secret:

A paper napkin is twisted from one corner to the other so that it looks like a rope. Hand it to one of your friends and ask him to hold the paper at the two ends and pull it apart so that it tears in the middle. No matter how much your friends try, they will not be able to get the paper to tear in the middle.

The Secret:

As your friends are busy trying to do the trick, secretly wet the tips of your fingers and touch the center of your paper. This will weaken the fibers so that it will tear at that point.
